Presentation: 1 Day Weather Report

Task: You will give a weather report in Spanish. This report will be presented in class on Thursday, November 5th or Friday, November 6th

Parte 1:Preparation

Use the weather and the temperatures you researched for your Five Day Weather forecast.

Step 1: Write out what you plan to say on the lines provided below. Use your notes to help you. Be sure to include the following in your report:

- * greeting (hello, good morning/ good afternoon)
- * your name
- * the day and date
- * the city and the country
- * description of the weather
- * high temperature in Celsius
- * low temperature in Celsius
- * farewell (bye, see you later, etc.)

Step 2: Make a PowerPoint presentation to help viewers better understand the forecast and help you remember what to say. You should have a visual for each piece of information you give (city and country, the weather, and temperatures). There should be no writing in your presentation other than the name of city and country and the temperatures (numerals only).

Parte 3: Presentation

You will give a live presentation to the class on your assigned day (Thursday or Friday). You will not be allowed to use any notes during your presentation. Practice what you are going to say aloud at home. Please share your Google Slideshow with me (llynch@drregional.org) before class on Friday. If you do not share it with me ahead of time ten (10) points will be taken off your grade. Speak loudly and clearly. Be enthusiastic!
